PRESIDENT KENNEDY is considering the appointment of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor to an important White House post, presumably that of military ad-visor. This announcement was the first offi-cially disclosed result of the probe of paramilitary activities inidertaken by Taylor, Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, Allen Dulles and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke in the wake of the disastrous Cuban invasion. Dulles is head of the Central Intelligence Agency and Burke is chief of naval operations.

The appointment of Taylor as chief military advisor to the President was predictable from several standpoints: The White House is known to have suffered some loss of confidence in the Joint Chiefs of Staff as a result of the Cuban fiasco. Taylor's ideas on building up the nation's conventional-warfare and guerrilla-warfare strength are similast to those publicly espoused by Mr. where.

bulgioreal of arts Kennedy. And the White House circle of national-security advisors lacks a man with the top-level indicate experience possessed by Taylor.

General Taylor has a brilliant record

the west the both and a regard and in both cold war and hot war. He has commanded in Berlin and in Korea He represents that rare combination of two listed fighting man and thoughtful in the listed fighting the lis tellectual. He is an excellent choice to act as the President's right arm in milltery matters.

As for the hush-hush investigation Taylor and his blue-ribbon assistants have conducted into volonk-and-dagger. activities, their report of course cannot be made public, alta is filled with vital national-security information.

But we think the public is entitled to an open presidential discussion of the subject to help restore confidence in the nation's undercover operations, so hadly, shaken by events in Cuba, Laos and elsewhere. where. CHANGE OF THE PARTY
